MR. DISCIPLINE

I show up even when I don't feel like it.

Discipline is a decision, not a mood.

One more rep than yesterday.

Motivation quits. I don't.

I don't need to feel ready to start.

Consistency beats intensity, every time.

The hard days count double.

I'm building the version of me who doesn't quit.

Small and repeated beats big and occasional.

I trust the system, not the mood.

Today's effort is tomorrow's evidence.

I don't negotiate with excuses.

Showing up is the whole rep.

I'm not behind — I'm in progress.

Every session is a vote for who I'm becoming.

I do it scared, tired, or unmotivated.

Progress doesn't ask permission.

I finish what I start.

Comfort is not the goal today.

I control the effort, not the outcome.

Discipline now, freedom later.

I don't wait for motivation to show up first.

The plan doesn't care how I feel about it.

I earned today's rest by showing up.

No perfect days needed — just today's.

I am the system I follow.

Quitting isn't in today's plan.

I show up for future me.

The work is the reward.

Systems over motivation. Always.
